CHANCES ARE THAT RENO WILL GET THE FIGHT; GODFIELD HAS A CHANCE

San Francisco, Cal., June 20.—Promoter Tex Rickard left this morning for Reno, Nevada, where tonight he will meet the committee from Reno and Godfield and receive bids from rival towns for the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

Rickard received a telegram from Godfield that 20 prominent men of that city will be in Reno and will remain there until he comes to join them.

Jack Johnson was arranged for a training camp at Lawton Springs, six miles west of Reno, on the line of the S. P. railroad, and manager Berger has wired the manager at Moana Springs, two miles south of Reno, to prepare a gymnasium and reserve accommodations for Jeffries and 15 members of his party.

It was stated that Godfield merchants, in an effort to induce Rickard to bring the fight to their town, have offered to guarantee him against all loss.

Ely, Nevada, is eliminated as a possibility because of its location.

Johnson's Sunday.

Although he is ready at a moment's notice to pack his belongings and move to Reno, Jack Johnson went through his usual performance at the beach yesterday afternoon. Something like 1200 people attracted by the fact that it was probably the last box fight that the champion would do in San Francisco, were on hand and the negro gave them a good run. Previous to his work with a local newspaper photographer and Sig Hart banded words with one of the Chicago correspondents who was accused of "roasting" Johnson through the medium of his paper.

Mrs. Jack Johnson was removed to a local hospital yesterday morning for a minor operation and it was said she will be ready to make the trip to Reno with her husband.

Jeff Ready to Move.

According to Sam Berger, Jeffries' manager, arrangements are being made for the breaking up of the Ben Lomond training camp Tuesday evening. "We are prepared to be on the move," said Berger, "and the sooner we will like it. I have arranged for a special Pullman car for Jeffries and his trainers, and just as soon as we receive word from the promoters, the entire outfit will go to Oakland where the special will be awaiting them."

TEXAS LEAGUE GOSSIP

By Horace Shelton.

of the Texas league. He is a native of San Antonio. In the Southwest Texas league he hit a .311 clip and did splendid base running and fielding. He is only 19 years old. The Pittsburgh Nationals have had Knaupp under consideration and it looks like it was pretty certain that he would see big league company next season.

At Galveston on Friday Spangler knocked a ball which went to the back of the diamond out of reach of the fielders and through the clubhouse door. Three men were on bases and the home run counted for four runs.

Ables is temporarily out of the game for San Antonio. He has been called to Kaufman as a witness in a trial concerning the abrupt demise of a Chinaman. He will be back early next week. His work will be missed by the team, even for a short time during the present hard fight for first place.

Bill Graham, secured by the St. Louis Browns from Shreveport, has been released by that team to Chattanooga of the Southern Association. Graham pitched six games for St. Louis and lost them all. Apparently Graham was not much thought of in the American league as all seven clubs waived on the southpaw. Graham is anxious to return to Texas and is not satisfied at all with his berth with the Southern association.

Preststone and Stinton are certainly the handy boys with the willow. Their long swats with men on bases are responsible for the Bronchos winning many games lately.

It must hurt Dallas fans awfully to see that team only slightly leading Waco for the cellar championship. At the beginning of the season it looked as if Curley Malone had a pennant winning bunch but since that time the team has had an awful slump.

Shortstop Larsen has been released by the San Antonio club. Larsen played several years in the Southern league and was secured from that association by the Bronchos. He has put up a very poor exhibition. He may find a berth in the Southwest Texas league.

It is indeed a hot day in the Texas league when a riot cannot be pulled off on account of some objection to the umpire's decision. The money that is being paid out for extra police protection to keep the umpires from being mobbed could be used to better advantage in getting better umpires.

Moore, who is playing shortstop for the Panthers while Walter Morris is on vacation, is doing some mighty fine work. The manager for Fort Worth may decide that his team will do better if he remains on that vacation.

Pitcher Yates has finally shown up in the Texas league and joined the Dallas team. He celebrated his debut in the league by getting pounded all over the field. Johnson, from the southern league, has also put his feet under the Dallas dining table. It is possible that he may do better than the other additions to the team.

No sooner had the newspapers of St. Louis begun to hand Bill Baker a few bouquets than he was batted all over the field by the Washington team. An awful holler is being put up again. The former Beaumont player will probably be traded to Detroit. Hughes, having an idea that he can get the Texan back in form again.

It takes a fan guessing hard to find just where Drueckey, with the Oklahoma Senators, will next appear in the line up. One day he is behind the bat, the next at shortstop, the next in the outfield, etc., etc. Just the same he delivers the goods and is becoming the terror of every pitcher in the league. The Christian university certainly does turn out some real ball players.

Newnam is rapping the ball rather hard for the St. Louis Browns but is playing ragged all at first. His error column is something frightful.

Weitzel of the Sand Crabs is on the sick list. He is nursing a bad case of lumbago.

Despite the fact that San Antonio has taken H. Knaupp from the Victoria team of the Southwest Texas league there are two more of the family playing good ball there. A. Knaupp replaces his brother at shortstop and Knaupp, another brother, is playing third base for Beville. The San Antonio admirers of the Dutch boys hope to see all three of them in the big league before long.

EVOLUTION OF AMERICAN HOG

A big packing house is very interesting. A chain is first looped around one of the hind legs of the hog and the other end attached to a hook on a big revolving drum. The squealing porker is carried up into the air and the end of the chain attached to the drum is transferred to a long track, which transports the hog past the stunner, who may plunge his knife into the throats of many thousands of hogs in a single day. From this point the bleeding porker is carried to the slaughtering machines, and almost in less time than it takes to tell it has gone through all the processes which transform it from a live hog into dressed pork. Dozens of men take part in the slaughter of each hog, each man having his own special work to do, which may be nothing more than wielding a single stroke with a knife.

A Once Despised Animal.

The hog has a peculiar history. Described by the Brahmins and the ancient Egyptians, pronounced unclean by the Mohammedans and the Jews, in Europe hunting the wild hog for generations was regarded as the most thrilling sport in which kings and princes could engage. Yet under the development which was wrought by the breeders of the past, he has come down to the American farmer as one of his greatest assets, a mortgage lifter and a debt payer. Zoologically speaking, the hog is a cousin of the elephant, the long nose of the wild boar corresponding to the trunk of that animal.

The first hogs brought to America came from Spain, arriving in Cuba on the vessels which brought Columbus on his second visit to the new world. In 1492, it is thought that the next importation was those which reached Florida in 1533. Canada received its first swine from England in 1533. The early domestic hog in Europe was the result of the crossing of the wild hog with the common wild domesticated animals from China. It was found that their progeny took all of the hardiness of the wild boar and all of the early maturing qualities of the domesticated animals of Asia.

United States Breeds the Best.

The hog affords the best instance among all domesticated species, unless it be the dog, of the working of the law of natural selection and environment. It is a far cry from the wild hogs of Europe to the modern Poland China, but it has all been brought about by a judicious application of the laws of selection and environment. In few kinds of stock are there more different breeds. England has produced a great many varieties, but probably the best breeds are those which have been established in the United States. No other domestic animal is as prolific as the hog. It has been calculated that at 11 years of age one brood sow may be the ancestor of more than 6,000 pigs. It is this quality that makes the hog one of the most profitable of all the animals on the farm. It is said moreover, that hogs yield greater returns for the food they eat than any other member of the domestic species outside of the feathered kingdom.

The pig has long been regarded as the least intelligent among the domestic animals. Yet it is asserted by men who have made a careful study of their mental activities, that this seeming dumbness is the result of environment and not a natural trait. Trainers assert that pigs have qualities which more nearly approximate some of the best traits in human nature than those of any other animal.

For instance, it is asserted that they show keener anguish over the suffering of their own kind than any other domestic creatures. They have the instinct of fighting together, and will form themselves into a circle for defense. A formation better than which man himself has nothing to offer. One may see this instinct of the wild hog manifested when a dog goes into the hog lot and disturbs the peace of its denizens.

MADRIZ GETS A SHARP ANSWER.

United States Replies to the Charges of Nicaraguan President.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—Madriz has drawn from this government a sharp reply to the protests he made to the president, claiming that the United States has prolonged the war in Nicaragua because it refuses to allow the bombardment of Bluefields or to allow the Venus to maintain a blockade there.

Consul Olivares of Managua has been furnished with a statement to hand to Madriza. It tersely observes that if any violation of neutrality has occurred, it was when the Venus sailed from New Orleans as an expedition of the Madriza faction.

Madriz protested not to the United States alone, but to all the south American and Central American republics. The statements in his telegrams are construed by the state department as an effort to place in a false light the policy of the United States in regard to Nicaragua.

Some governments that received his protest have asked for information from Washington. President Diaz, of Mexico, it is explained, asked for information, and president Taft, replying in a cordial manner, sent to the government at Mexico City the same statement which consul Olivares has been directed to hand to Madriza. This statement follows:

"The policy of the United States remains as set forth in the secretary of state's letter of Dec. 1, 1909, to Mr. Rodriguez, then charge d'affaires, whereby relations with the Zelaya government were broken off.

"As to the statements made in the telegrams of Dr. Madriza to the president, the government of the United States took only the customary step of prohibiting bombardment or fighting by either faction within the unfortified and ungarrisoned commercial city of Bluefields, thus protecting the American and other foreign interests just as the British commander had done at Greytown, where there are large British interests.

"The government of the United States simply insists that each faction shall collect duties in territories under its de facto control and he refuses to permit the collection of double duties. If any violation of neutrality has occurred it was in connection with the sailing of the Venus from New Orleans as an expedition of the Madriza faction."

ANOTHER MAN IN THE RACE FOR SHERIFF

Cunningham Is Strong With Railroad Men—Official Ballot.

C. M. Cunningham, who has for many years been an engineer on the G. H., announced his candidacy for the office of sheriff Saturday night, filing his application with county chairman W. B. Ware at 8 p. m.

The sheriff's race will now resolve itself into a three cornered fight and it is expected the entrance of Cunningham into the race will cause a split in the railroad vote, though the opinion expressed by many Monday morning was that Cunningham has entered the race too late to cause any damage, and that he has simply gone into the fight to make a split. Hall is known to be strong with the railroad men and Edwards looks for a split of that vote to help him out, as the "ring" has practically conceded his defeat if he is unable to split the railroad vote.

Hall says that Cunningham wanted to set as his campaign manager but he declined to give him the job.

The list of candidates whose names will appear on the official ballots for the Democratic primaries on July 23, and which have been arranged by county Democratic chairman W. B. Ware, follows: For United States senator, Charles A. Culbertson; for state senator, Claude B. Hudspeth and Adol. Hoffman; for representative, W. C. McGowan; for district attorney, Joseph M. Nealon and Walter D. Howe; for county judge, A. S. Eyles; for sheriff, Peyton J. Edwards, Florence J. Hall and Charles M. Cunningham; for county clerk, Park W. Pittman; for district clerk, Ike Alderete and O. M. Talley; for county tax collector, George Harper; for county assessor, George W. Huffman; for county treasurer, C. E. Kelly; for county attorney, W. W. Bridges; for justice of the peace, E. H. Watson, E. B. McClintock and H. F. Stacy; for county superintendent of public instruction, J. E. Rainer; for county commissioners, J. J. Smith, Jose Perez, T. D. Love, James Clifford; for constable, Domingo Montoya, Cruz Ortiz and W. A. Mitchell.
